WAR SHADOWS DARKEN IN ULSTER

Government Hurries Troops to Orange Counties—Absence Leaves Cancelled

100 OFFICERS RESIGN FROM NATION'S SERVICE

Two Dorset Companies Mutiny—Spark Only is Needed to Set War in Motion

DUBLIN, March 21.—Determined to desert rather than to fight for home rule a soldier at Camp Carragh tried this afternoon to scale the barracks wall. A sentry fired at him, compelling him to descend. Although the incident in itself is trivial it was magnified in the afternoon papers throughout the country as possibly being the first shot in the civil war in Ireland.

Troops Ready For Action

DUBLIN, March 21.—All the troops in Southern Ireland have been ordered to the Orange counties today. All leaves of absence have been cancelled and the absentees recalled. The Southern Irish Militia has been ordered to be ready to join the colors on quick notice. The warships in Bantry Bay are en route to Belfast. Two training ships have also been ordered to Belfast from Kingston with recruits. The government of Great Britain is making every preparation to crush an uprising if any should result from the present home rule legislation situation.

Field Marshal French arrived here today and is directing the military operations. Investigating the report that many army officers had resigned rather than fight for home rule, he learned that about one hundred officers in the Fourth Hussars, stationed at Carragh barracks, really had surrendered their commissions, in response to the ultimatum received from the war office that any officers not prepared to serve against Ulster must immediately send in their resignations or be dismissed from the service.

ONLY SPARK NEEDED TO INFAME ALL OF ULSTER

At the present moment one spark will inflame the whole of Ulster, whose volunteers have long since received the order to be ready for instant action. Those volunteers are now waiting, according to a well informed correspondent, for the firing of two rockets over the headquarters of the provisional government in Belfast as a signal to take up their arms. The volunteer forces are variously estimated at from 60,000 to 10,000 men. The necessary spark may well be caused by the advertised intention of the Nationalist Volunteers to hold a general parade in Londonderry this afternoon. The men have been called to assemble in Waterloo Square, the scene of the serious outbreak last August.

Dorset Companies Mutiny

LONDON, March 21.—The Pall Mall Gazette published a dispatch today saying that two companies of the Dorsetshire militia stationed at Belfast, had mutinied.

MEXICAN KILLED CORONA OFFICER

Was Later Shot Near Prado by Posse—Believed to Be Dynamite Thug

CORONA, March 21.—After he had killed Special Officer George W. La Corte in a revolver duel in the Santa Fe yards about 10 o'clock last night, F. Morri, a Mexican, was shot and killed by a posse between Corona and Prado about midnight. Mirri opened fire on the posse, shooting Officer Ewing of Corona in the right leg.

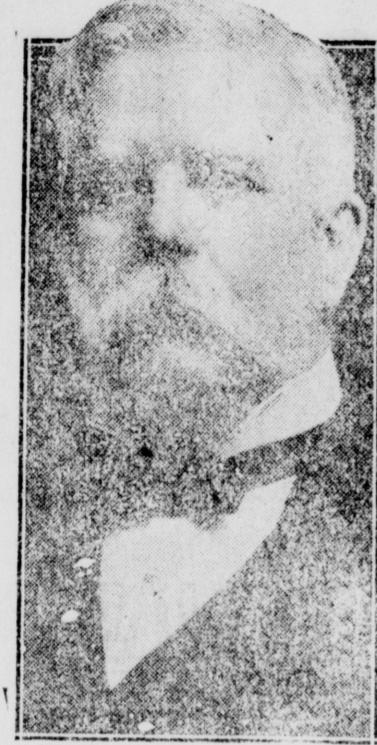

Morri's pockets contained twenty-two sticks of dynamite, a box of caps, a hundred feet of fuse and an extra revolver. It is believed that he is the man who dynamited the safe of the Snyder Jewelry Company at Arling-ton last Thursday night.

La Corte was found dying by a box car. He was unable to tell much of the details of the affair, but it is believed that he attempted to arrest Morri and that the shooting followed

George Westinghouse, Who Died Suddenly

George Westinghouse, whose invention of the airbrake made him a world-famous man, died unexpectedly in New York.

Death was due to heart disease, which first became manifest about fifteen months ago. He was sixty-eight years old, having been born in the village of Central Bridge, near Schenectady, N. Y., October 6, 1846.

His most prominent achievement was:

Invention of the airbrake, upon which his fame largely rests, used throughout the world as the principal safety device on locomotives.

Development of the alternating current system for electric lighting and power.

Perfection of device for carrying with safety and economy, natural gas over long distances, thus making it possible to use it extensively for domestic and industrial fuel.

Invention of air spring for motor vehicles of all kinds.

Invention of geared turbine system for the propulsion of ships.

Establishment of many factories, which employ today 50,000 persons and are capitalized at $200,000,000.

INTENT TO KILL S. P. TRAIN GIVEN UP--WORKLESS WALKED

Shots Fired by Valenzuela and Basquez Responsible for Wardlow's Death

CORONER'S JURY MET AT TALBERT YESTERDAY

Despite Rigid Search, Officers Fail to Find Any Trace of Basquez

Delbert D. Wardlow came to his death on March 19, 1914, "by pistol shot wounds of the body and thigh, said shots having been fired by Ezequiel Valenzuela and Pasqual Basquez with intent to kill." This was the verdict of the coroner's jury that met yesterday at Talbert to hold an inquest as to the cause of Wardlow's death. Those on the jury were F. P. Walker, foreman; R. Courreges, J. G. Parsons, Charles F. Ward, John Heaton, A. B. Waldrep, James H. Cox.

No facts other than those already known were brought out at the inquest. The principal witness, Dan Stafford, testified that in all eight shots were fired by Valenzuela and Basquez, at the Valenzuela house.

The testimony offered by the elder Wardlow was in no way contradictory to that given by Stafford.

Dr. Ball stated that in his opinion the primary cause of Wardlow's death was the bullet wound in the thigh which severed the femoral artery and which caused a fatal loss of blood, though death would inevitably have resulted from a bullet which entered Wardlow's body at about an inch to the left of the spinal column, penetrating both walls of the stomach.

An examination of the wound in the thigh convinced the officers that the first shot to prove fatal was fired from a 38-caliber revolver and that at least two of the wounds in the stomach were from a smaller gun. The officers are satisfied that the 38-caliber revolver was used by Valenzuela and the 32-caliber by Basquez, as .38 shells were found in Valenzuela's house.

Although the officers are keeping up a rigid search covering all the territory southwest of the city, no trace of Basquez has been found.

Basquez is described as 25 or 26 years old, slender, height 5 feet 9 or 10 inches, light complexion, dark brown hair, light brown eyes, weight 160 pounds.

Expect 10,000 Marchers

After declaring that they would keep the camp site for only ten days, when they would take their "10,000 marchers"—and the officers of the army insist that there will be that many—Sacramento and from there "on to Washington," the police took steps toward liberating the leaders of the "army" who had been placed under arrest.

STARTS 30-YEAR TERM FOR STEALING KISSES

SAN QUENTIN, CAL., March 21.—Prison doors closed here today on Charles Guyton, who was sentenced to spend thirty years in San Quentin by Superior Judge Willis of Los Angeles for stealing ten cents and three kisses from Miss Daisy Stagwala. Guyton held up the girl last December. After taking ten cents from her purse he kissed her. He then returned the money with the remark, "It was worth it." Six other girls identified Guyton as the man who had stopped them on the street, gun in hand, and kissed and hugged them after stealing small change from their purses.

Reports of the engagement of Miss Eleanor Wilson, youngest daughter of the President, to William G. McAdoo, secretary of the treasury, have proved true. For the White House has made the announcement, having been compelled, perhaps, to make an early statement because of the persistence of the reports in Washington.

That the announcement of Miss Eleanor's engagement should be made on Friday, the 13th, is regarded as significant of the defiance which the Wilson family has always shown to the superstition against Friday and the 13th.

Secretary McAdoo and the President's daughter have been together at many a dance and social function.

Though Secretary McAdoo is fifty years old and Miss Wilson is twenty-four, intimate friends of the secretary declare he is "as young as a man of thirty." He is fond of tennis and outdoor sports, and played tennis often on the White House courts with Miss Wilson last spring and fall. Miss Wilson is athletic, a good horsewoman, and delights in outdoor life.

MISS ELEANOR WILSON AND SECRETARY OF TREASURY, WHOSE ENGAGEMENT IS ANNOUNCED AT WHITE HOUSE

ment because of the persistence of the reports in Washington.

It is believed here that Huerta offered to surrender the presidency to Minister Rojas, himself taking the field against the rebels, if Washington will recognize Rojas and permit him to be a candidate at the next presidential election.

TEXANS THREATEN RAID—BLISS TO PREVENT IT

Rumors reached the war department today that friends of Clemente Vergara, the American recently killed in Mexico by the federales, are planning to cross the border near Nuevo Laredo, Texas, with a party of Texas rangers to seize the horses and other property that Vergara claimed had been stolen from him. Secretary of War Garrison immediately wired General Bliss to prevent the raid.

AMERICANS ARMING TO AVENGE TORTURE OF BALLARD

CARRIZO SPRINGS, Texas, March 21.—Chas. Ballard, the American who escaped and returned here after having been kidnapped, carried across the border and tortured by five Mexicans, is in a critical condition today.

Americans in this vicinity are arming and are threatening a filibuster expedition to retaliate. The doctors say Ballard may live but the chances are against him.

Ballard said the Mexicans were federales. He claims they lured him from town on a pretense of repairing a windmill, then bound him, put a noose about his neck and forced him to follow. He alleges they led him for two days and nights with a rope around his neck and attached to a saddle horn, dragging him through cactus and sand until he collapsed.

2. Enforcement of Sanitary Measures—Ventilation of the tents is good except that it is necessary to close them very tightly when there is much wind, owing to the drifting sand.

Advanced cases are kept in bed; others are allowed the liberty of the grounds.

Sputum is collected in covered combustible sputum cups and burned.

The laundry work is done at the institution. The bedding was clean.

Dishes of tuberculous patients are kept separate.

Owing to the dust which was blowing at the time of inspection the tents had an untidy appearance, this being increased by the fact that they are crowded with furniture and personal belongings of the patients.

3. Medical and Nursing Attendance—The county physician is in attendance. There is no trained nursing service, but there is proper provision for waiting upon the small number of tuberculous patients present.

4. Provision for Proper Food.—The individual tent idea as used here is an attractive one and will probably prove more popular at this hospital after the completion of the main building.

I would recommend that provision be made for more shade, and lawn, to lessen the amount of dust.

There should be provision for the most advanced cases in a permanent building.

SPEAKER CLARK STOPPED PROBE OF PAGE'S LATE SPEECH

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Consideration was prevented today in the house of the Murray resolution for investigating the speech in London. Speaker Clark in making the ruling said: "I do not know whether the state department knows what its future policy is to be. If the department undertook to state what its policy would be it would be an opinion and not a fact. No one knows what its policy will be for the next year or for the next twenty-five or fifty years."

NEW YORK SIEGEL STORES MAY BRING 14 CENTS ON DOLLAR

NEW YORK, March 21.—From inventories just completed of the Simon-Crawford and Fourteenth Street stores, it was estimated depositors in the bank that was conducted by Henry Siegel and Frank E. Vogel might expect 14½ cents on the dollar.

Villa Tightening Lines

EL PASO, March 21.—Gen. Villa is tightening the lines about Torreon today, according to meager reports here. The Constitutionalists' headquarters at Juarez has received a detailed dispatch believed to tell the exact status at the front but has refused to make it public. It was merely announced that the Constitutionalists are in possession of all points abandoned by the federales.

New Schoolhouse Proposed—
Ranger Building New Trail
to Peak

EL TORO, March 21.—On Monday the El Toro school district is going to vote upon a proposal for $8,000 bonds, and if the bonds carry El Toro is going to have a new schoolhouse. There is some opposition to the bonds on the part of those who think that the old schoolhouse that has been doing service for so long is good enough for the present and future. The building is a one-room school, and it has two teachers. That sounds like an improbability, but it is a fact. They are using the ante-room for a recitation room. The present building leaks.

It is the plan of the trustees to sell the old building, and put up a substantial building for the accommodation of the district's school children, who number about forty. A well has been dug, and part of the money to be derived from the bonds will be used to install an engine and water tank.

A number of the women of the district are much interested in the passage of the bonds, and they are going to do some hustling at the polls on Monday. They feel that this section has a great future before it and that there is no reason why El Toro should be one whit behind any other country school district of Orange county.

Building Trail

Forest Ranger Stephenson has been busy for some time building a new trail to the top of Old Saddleback. The new trail will not be much shorter than the one that has been in use for a good many years, but it will be an easier trail, and the time it will take to make the top of Santiago Peak, where the forest lookout house is located, will be greatly reduced. The present trail goes down two canyons, and that means up out of two canyons. The new trail will be on a fairly easy grade from An-

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, March 21.—The Monday morning Owl train ran into a bunch of E. Oyarzabal's horses, badly injuring five of them. One of them with a broken leg had to be killed and one of the remaining four is so badly injured that his recovery is doubtful. Dr. Price was called to attend their injuries and predicts that it will be a month or six weeks before any of them are able to be put to work again. These horses are all fine large work stock, and were being driven from a small pasture a short distance from the town into the Oyarzabal corral. There were about 20 horses, and just as they got to the corral gate they all stampeded and ran down the railroad right-of-way just in time to meet the 3:15 a. m. train. Seven or eight of them were knocked down and thrown from the track with the result of five being badly injured.

WANTS PAY FOR WORTHLESS STOCK

J. E. Ward Promised to Buy it But He Did Not—It is Now No Good

J. E. Ward may have to buy some stock that he most certainly does not want. He is defendant in a suit brought against him by Earl D. and Lydia Gray. The Grays do not want the stock either. They say it is worthless, but they say Ward agreed to buy it.

The complaint, filed by Attorney B. E. Tarver, states that on March 21, 1910, Ward agreed to buy within 30 days, 400 shares of stock in the Collins Wireless Telephone and Telegraph Company for $380. Ward failed to make the purchase from the Grays. The complaint does not state when the stock went down in market value, but it does state that it is now worth nothing. Judgment of $380 with interest at seven per cent since 1910 is asked.

Divorce Cases.

Suit for divorce was brought yesterday by Nellie Lewis against Al Lewis. H. C. Head is attorney for the plaintiff.

Iida May Boesenberg was given an interlocutory decree of divorce against Oscar A. Boesenberg, and was allowed to resume her maiden name, Tieman. Williams & Rutan were attorneys for the plaintiff.

An interlocutory decree and the custody of minor children were given Arrie Morgan against William O. Morgan. Melrose and Ames, attorneys for plaintiff.

Take the Money.

W. H. De Hetre has decided not to appeal from the judgment of $250 entered in his favor. He sued J. J. Graham & Son, a Huntington Beach garage, for $20,175 for injuries received when he was hit by an automobile driven by an employee of the garage, where De Hetre worked. This morning the money held by the county clerk in the case was drawn down.

Title Decided.

Yesterday judgment was given the plaintiff in the action to quiet title to eighty acres northwest of Garden Grove. Judge Thomas on the stipulation of attorneys gave title to W. R. Hill as administrator of the estate of William J. Hill as against James R. Shearer as administrator of the estate of Blanche L. Hill, who was W. J. Hill's second wife. Williams & Rutan represented the plaintiff and F. C. Spencer and Clyde Bishop the defendant.

Termination Interest.

Henrietta Presnall has petitioned the superior court to terminate the life interest of Ellen M. Chapin in property in Stou's addition, Santa Ana. The petitioner was adopted by F. B. and Mrs. Chapin, who are now dead. Williams & Rutan represent the petitioner.

Finds Health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Creston, Iowa.—"I suffered with female troubles from the time I came into womanhood until I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I would have pains if I overworked or lifted anything heavy, and I would be so weak and nervous and in so much misery that I would be prostrated. A friend told me what your medicine had done for her and I tried it. It made me strong and healthy and our home is now happy with a baby boy. I am very glad that I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and do all I can to recommend it!"—Mrs. A. B. Boscamp, 504 E. Howard Street, Creston, Iowa.

Tons of Roots and Herbs are used annually in the manufacture of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is known from ocean to ocean as the standard remedy for female ills.

Perfect Heating with Gas BY THE RECTOR SYSTEM NO DUST DIRT ODOR

The RECTOR SYSTEM is the perfect, ideal heating system that we have all been waiting for, hoping for, almost praying for, these many years. It finally solves the heating problem for your homes.

No bother with coal or ashes—so simple a child can operate—and it saves you money.

The RECTOR SYSTEM burns ordinary gas, such as you now use to light your homes and for cooking purposes in your gas ranges. Gas is infinitely more convenient than coal, oil or any other kind of fuel.

The RECTOR SYSTEM removes every objection heretofore connected with gas heating—the disagreeable odor, the unhealthful fumes and moisture and the great expense.

The RECTOR SYSTEM leaves all the heat from the gas in the room, yet takes all the "smell" from the gas out of the room.

The RECTOR SYSTEM gives you—

Exactly the amount of heat you want when you want it.

Exactly the amount of heat desired in each individual room.

An even temperature under perfect control, automatically adjusting itself to meet the changes of the weather.

Absolutely no work or bother. Your entire heating system is started by simply pushing a button as you now push a button to turn on your electric lights.

Positively no dirt, dust or smell of burning gas.

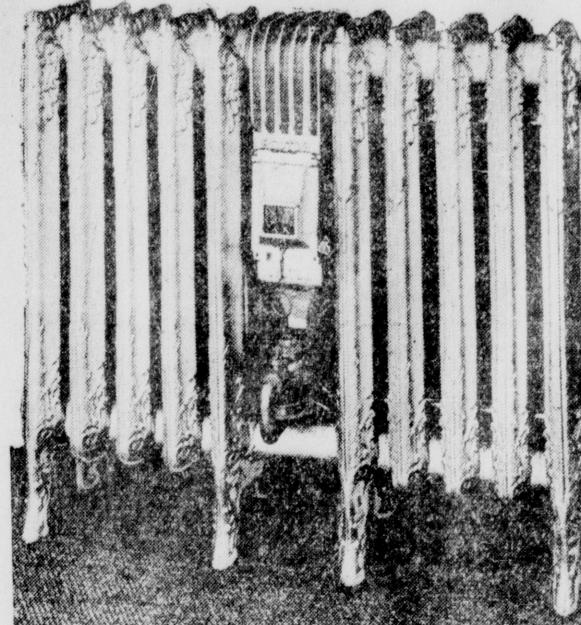

A ventilating system which continuously exhausts all the air in the room and replaces it with fresh air from outdoors.

A large saving in your gas fuel bills.

The RECTOR SYSTEM is revolutionary, of course. It means a great change in existing conditions. For that reason you will probably receive this announcement skeptically. We expect that and are prepared for it. No big industrial problem has been solved, no big invention has ever been introduced without public doubt—at first.

The RECTOR SYSTEM gives a service so far in advance of any other method of heating, so perfect in every detail, that ultimately no home will be without it. We have convinced everyone who has seen it and tested it.

NO FIRES TO BUILD.

The Only Heating System that Runs Itself

That the RECTOR SYSTEM is perfectly automatic—you do not have to turn on the gas or turn it off. You do not have to regulate the supply of gas for the different temperatures you may desire. The thermostat takes care of everything, allowing only the exact amount of gas to be burned to give the heat desired.

That the RECTOR SYSTEM is sanitary and healthful. There is no odor, dust or dirt; no over-heated or under-heated room. There is constant and continuous ventilation. All this has resulted in better general health in homes where installed.

That the RECTOR SYSTEM operates on the lowest gas pressure—even in the absence of pressure—drawing its own gas from the main.

That the RECTOR SYSTEM enabled them to utilize their cellar for something better than furnaces and coal bins.

The RECTOR SYSTEM has been used in all sorts of weather—and all sorts of outside temperatures, below zero and above—in small homes—in large residences—in public halls—in school buildings—in churches—in public libraries—in large apartment houses—in banks and in every case and under all circumstances the verdict is the same—a service so perfect, so ideal as to meet every possible heating requirement.

NO FURNACE TO CARE FOR.

MAKE US SHOW YOU

How many times have you said to yourself and your friends: "Some day some one will come along and perfect a method of burning gas for heating purposes and solve the heating problem for everybody." Now that it has come in the RECTOR SYSTEM, the only method of burning gas in a vacuum, we hope you will not be unreasonable and fail to investigate. Be a "Doubting Thomas"—make us show you—but do not refuse us an opportunity to prove what RECTOR can do. We have installed upwards of 4000 RECTOR AUTOMATIC RADIATORS in California during the past year and have hundreds of letters proving that this SYSTEM makes good our every claim.

If we can give you just the service you have been longing for in the way of heating—we believe you are going to find out how. If you can get exactly what you want in heating without the bother of coal, wood or oil or the annoyance of ashes—in short, can heat your home as easily and conveniently as on now light it, by simply pushing a button, then you certainly will not do without it.

Now, we want to tell you all about this wonderful RECTOR SYSTEM. Over $300,000 has been spent in developing and perfecting it, and its conveniences and satisfactory operation have been proven in hundreds of homes. We have no stock for sale. We are anxious to introduce the RECTOR SYSTEM in every home as rapidly as possible. Architects, Builders, Contractors, Plumbers, Steam Fitters, Householders—EVERYONE IS URGENTLY REQUESTED TO MAKE US PROVE OUR CLAIMS. Write for our illustrated book, "PERFECT HEATING WITH GAS," which tells the whole story—What the RECTOR SYSTEM does and how it accomplishes such wonderful results.

Exclusive territory agents now being appointed on most favorable terms. A permanent business that will pay from $3000 and up the first year and grow bigger each year. But to establish the business, carry goods on hand, etc. Make prompt application before arrangements for your city are made with some one else.

STREET PAVING

If Santa Ana property-owners are wise in their day and generation they will get busy and KEEP BUSY on street paving until all the streets of the city are paved.

Labor and materials will never be cheaper than they are now, and owing to sharp competition and the presence in the city of several big paving plants, Santa Ana is getting her street work done at a price considerably less than the average price paid for the same class of work by other cities.

It is inevitable of course that sooner or later all the streets of the central section of the city—say within the two-mile square—must be paved.

Then why do it by piecemeal?

There are immense advantages in paving by the wholesale. For instance, the wear and tear on Main street and Broadway and the cost of keeping these streets clean would be greatly lessened if the cross streets were all paved. And this principle of economy would apply throughout any continuously paved district.

Moreover the dust nuisance, with its attendant great domestic uneasiness and menace to health would be minimized by general paving as compared with piecemeal or intermittent paving.

As each property owner pays only for his own frontage, there would be no piling up of the cost by general paving; and as a rule the property owners on "B" street are as well able to pay for paving as the property owners on "A" street are.

It has been proved over and over again that every foot of street paving done on any good residence street is worth to the abutting property twice its cost.

Let the good work go on.

UNEMPLOYED WOMEN AND DOMESTIC SERVICE

It is a singular cross current of modern economics, that while in some cities women have been holding mass meetings for the unemployed, during the past month or two, yet it is as hard as ever to find domestic servants.

Probably these idle women think that with spring weather trade will look up, and that the factories that previously employed them will ask for help again. Apparently they would prefer to suffer some immediate hardship rather than give up the independence of the factory.

Their bargain seems to be a poor one. Domestic service would give nearly the same cash wage as unskilled shop work, it would save the payment of board and provide better food.

But human nature is as it is. The early colonists found that the Indians would barter much more corn in return for glass beads than they would for the standard gold and silver coins of Europe. If working women want the freer life that goes with shop work, the employing class must give them that freedom in domestic service, or pay a higher price for control over their time, or put up with very raw help, or with no help at all.

The domestic worker has her own social aspirations. At certain hours the girls of her set who work in shops have the luxurious freedom of the streets. They can meet the men of their acquaintance and form plans for the evening's entertainment. No doubt it is much more prudent and much safer to be serving a late dinner to the mistress and her family at home. But a sense of deprivation rises under these circumstances in the heart of the girl, as she rebelliously washes her dishes, incidentally smashing a little china by way of emphasis.

Servants' wages will be high, and many unemployed women will be reluctant to enter this field, until its hours are more like those of a factory schedule.

WAKE UP AND GET BUSY!

What's the matter with Santa Ana, Tustin, Garden Grove and Orange?

Anheim and Fullerton and Buena Park are planning for ornamental lights on the boulevard connecting the two former cities and the one leading into the latter village.

There ought to be similar action taken by the cities and towns of the southern part of the county. The boulevards running from Santa Ana to Tustin, to Orange, to Garden Grove ought to be lighted with ornamental electric lights.

Meantime what has become of the ornamental lights for the business streets of this city?

SUBTROPICAL FRUITS IN THE CITRUS BELT

In line with the important question of determining the adaptability and possibilities of some of the new and little known subtropical fruits as commercial crops in the California citrus belt, the writer recently took up the matter with F. O. Popeno of Altona, and has since obtained a collection of the more promising, a collection of the more promising, the aid of the Station being at all times available in furthering the work.

Avocados—Harmon and Puebla. Feijoas (pronounced Fay-zho-a), or pineapple guava.

Anona cherimolia, or cherimoya.

Casimiroa edulis, or white sapote.

Guavas—Hawaiian, araca, guanensi, lucidum, calcutta.

Mangos—promising seedlings from selected stock.

Carissa, or natal plum.

Eugenia Jambu, or Rose apple.

Passiflora Edulis, or passionfruit.

Chayote, or Chayota.

The above experimental plantings include some of the hardest known varieties producing crops of good fruit in California; and so far as the Feijoas and avocados are concerned they will flourish wherever the orange will do well. Specimens of the Harmon have "come through" where young orange trees have been killed back by the frost; while the writer had two Taft avocados, which, although not set out until late in the fall, and hence not thoroughly established, were practically unharmed during the cold of January 1913, losing little of their foliage and since making good growth.

In going over the above list with Dr. H. J. Webber, dean of the State

Don't Stay Gray! It Darkens So Naturally that Nobody Can Tell

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you get a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" at any drug store. Those whose hair is turning gray, becoming faded, dry, scraggly and thin, have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful—all dandruff goes, scalp itching and falling hair stops.

FIFTEEN-CENT LUNCHEON

Smart Affair Achieved by Ladies of Sixth Section of Ebell Economics

The second in the series of luncheons given by the Sixth Section of Ebell Household Economics was enjoyed yesterday at the home of Mrs. W. H. Smith, 1230 French street. The luncheon, which was smart both in appointments and gastronomic excellence, was served by the members of the club at a cost of fifteen cents a plate. This achievement was really marvelous when the menu is considered.

The St. Patrick motif was observed in the place cards which were modeled as clay pipes and hand-painted, and in the centerpiece which was a tall green hat massed with ferns, and in the menu cards which were hand-painted shamrocks. The Irish colors and motif were seen in the refreshments, the biscuits being of shamrock shape, the dainty pudding in white and green and the mints of green. Sixteen ladies were seated at the table, and the following menu was enjoyed:

Consome Wafers
Baked Fish Mashed Potatoes Peas
Hot Biscuits

Marmalade Pickles

Lettuce Salad Nut Bread Sandwiches

Marshmallow Pudding with

Whipped Cream

Cake Mints Nuts

Tea

Three more luncheons will be served before the close of the club season, the practical experience in evolving a dainty and palatable repast at a minimum cost being both valuable and interesting, requiring both ingenuity and judicious selection of materials.

—O—
For Miss Miller

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. George Heil, assisted by several members of the Young Married People's Class of the First Methodist Church, gave a delightful "At Home" to about forty members of the class and other friends of Miss Jessie Miller. The affair was in the nature of a surprise party for Miss Miller who with her mother soon leaves for her home in Thorold, Canada. Mrs. and Miss Miller have been visiting at the home of Mrs. J. N. Anderson and Mrs. A. H. Theil.

The beautiful Heil home was further beautified by the liberal use of California poppies in the living room. In behalf of those present, Mrs. Heil presented the honoree with a California souvenir spoon as a token of esteem.

Mrs. E. H. McMath directed a guess ing contest and game, both of which were entertaining. The ladies were then treated to a well rendered musical program as follows: Instrumental duet, Mesdames Post and Ludwig; vocal solo, Mrs. Jesse Albright; quartet,

Nell Turner. Etta D. Turner.

—O—
Merry-Go-Round Club

The ladies of this club were happily entertained on Thursday afternoon at the North Ross street home of Mrs. J. C. Gilbank, pretty needlework of various sorts employing the fair fingers of the ladies as they chatted over the events of the day. The fragrance of lovely pink roses massed in a brass jardiniere lingered in the pleasant room where the club members whiled away the afternoon.

The hostess charmed all with the singing of Irish songs with Mrs. George Ford accompanying her on the piano. A tempting array of refreshments served at the close of the pleasant event, formed a hospitable conclusion for the club meeting.

The Merry-Go-Rounds present besides the hostess were Mesdames Ford, F. G. Newman, W. A. Patterson, Embry, J. G. Ryan, S. Cryer, H. Pullin, C. Baird, W. R. Phelps, Bertha Wilson, F. M. McClay Seymour of Redlands; the Misses Zella Gull and Lillie Farley. The club will hold its next meeting with Mrs. F. George Law.

Popular Musicians in Recital

Mrs. Minnie Roper Viersen, Mrs. Ruth Dearford Shaw and Miss Grace Nee of Los Angeles are planning a recital to be held March 31 in the United Presbyterian church. The first named two artists have many friends in this city, who will no doubt give them a hearty welcome.

—O—
Luncheon and Musicals.

Entertaining with a luncheon and musicale, Mrs. James B. Roberts was hostess Thursday afternoon at her prettily appointed apartments at The Padgham. Daylight was excluded and pink shaded candleabra were used for the handsomely appointed luncheon. Each table was centered with a mound of exquisite pink and white tinted roses, augmented by the fluffiness of pink tulip bows. A wealth of pink and white roses made vivid touches of color throughout the apartment. A musical program followed the luncheon, the numbers interspersing the conversation that was so pleasing a feature of the delightful afternoon.

Mrs. Roberts' guest list embraced Mmes. L. L. Shaw, W. E. Winslow, E. B. Burns, J. W. Bishop, L. J. Carden, C. E. French, H. C. Dawes, George Balderston, Theo. Winship, W. L. Gould, R. R. —O—
Celebrated Birthday

A birthday festivity was enjoyed Thursday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Carnahan. Mr. Carnahan having reached one of the milestones of his life, which his friends and relatives took pleasure in observing.

Whilst, played progressively, proved an entertaining pastime after the guests had wished Mr. Carnahan all the good things that his heart desired. Cake and ice cream, daintily served after the progressions, was the pleasant finale of the evening's enjoyment.

Those spending the evening with the Carnahans were Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Cole and family, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hoffman and family, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Swarthout and family, Mr. and Mrs. Asa Hoffman.

STUDIED TAPESTRIES

Art Study Club Delighted With Presentation of Subject by Artist Buerger

The paper on tapestries read by Mr. Buerger to the members of the Art Study Club at the apartments of Miss Wyant, 424 South Birch street, Wednesday evening, presented a new subject to most of the members and proved to be not only interesting and instructive but unusually delightful.

Mr. Buerger took up the history, composition, colorings, price of workmanship, etc., in tapestry-making and brought to his subject a knowledge of old-world tapestry art and ability in tapestry-painting possessed by few. The paper opened a new field to art lovers. The latter part of the evening was spent in looking at some of Mr. Buerger's sketches done in Egypt, Greece, Germany and Mexico. The evening ended in a cordial invitation to all interested in art to visit Mr. Buerger's studio at any time.

The next meeting of this club will be held at the home of Mrs. George S. Smith, 916 French street, the third Wednesday in April, when Miss Nunn of the High School art department will speak to the club on "Passion Art."

Reception for Players

A reception was given at G. A. Hall last evening by Sedgwick Post and Women's Relief Corps for those taking part in the recent play of "A Southern Flower." A program was given, as follows, in charge of Mrs. G. Moesser: Instrumental solo, Mrs. Grace Moesser; vocal quartet, Mesdames Ludwig, Smith, Post, Thomas; reading, Mr. Diablo; vocal solo, Miss La Rue Fipp; reading, Mrs. H. Clay Kellogg; vocal solo, Mr. Vieria; appreciation presented by Mrs. Yount in behalf of the corps to Mr. Diablo for his excellent directing. All responded to encores.

An amusing game was introduced by Mrs. Chapman, wherein a needle-threading contest was enjoyed by the ladies and gentlemen, Mrs. Vieria and Mr. Attila winning first prize. Last, but not least, by means of numbers all found partners for the delicious refreshments served by Mrs. Ella Wilson and aides in the banquet room.

Mize-Rhode

This morning at 10:30 o'clock, a simple wedding took place in the Church of the Messiah, with Rev. Rufus S. Chase reading the Episcopal marriage service. Those who took the solemn vows of marriage were Miss Minnie E. Rhode of Bement, Ill., and Robert C. Mize of this city. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Mize, 602 West Third street.

The bride came from her Illinois home to meet the man on her choice, being accompanied by her aunt, Mrs. Bryant of that city. The two ladies were guests at the George W. Mize home after their arrival yesterday.

The attractive young woman who had loyally shown her affection for her betrothed by coming to the Pacific coast to wed him, was married in a chic tango traveling suit, with hat to match. Mr. and Mrs. Mize left immediately for Los Angeles on a brief honeymoon trip. They will reside in Santa Ana at 816 Parton street, after their return.

The First Household Economics Section met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. H. Lyon, with Mrs. Lyon, Mrs. W. M. Smart and Mrs. W. L. Tubbs as hostesses.

The afternoon's subject was "Invalid Cooking and the Care of the Sick." The arriving class members were greeted at the door by the hostesses, most appropriately arrayed in the white caps and aprons of the nurse's uniform. Interesting and instructive articles on sick-room hygiene, invalid cooking, and the care of invalids were read by Mrs. Tubbs and Mrs. Lyon, and Mrs. Smart distributed a list of questions which brought forth much interesting and valuable information. Most of them were questions which very often confront the housemother, and the best treatment for cuts, burns, headaches and other ills is an important subject.

After the serious business of the afternoon was disposed of, came an hour of recreation—an essential part of every convalescent's daily routine.

One at a time, the "patients" were led into a closed room, where a white-capped nurse, armed with a teaspoon and medicine glass, and wearing a most professional air, was in charge.

"I shall now show you," said the nurse, "how to administer medicine so that it will leave no unpleasant taste—by this method you may give castor oil and the patient couldn't tell it from honey. Please stick out your tongue—farther—as far as possible, please"—and when the unsuspecting "patient" had stretched her tongue to its uttermost limit, the teaspoonful of medicine, which had hovered over it was calmly swallowed by the nurse.

After some further recreation, well calculated to arouse an appetite, each "patient" was given a dainty invalid's tray, with a fresh white rosebud for beauty's sake, and a cup of steaming bouillon, with bits of toast, a delicious custard with cream, and a cup of tea. The "convalescents" were all refreshed and rejuvenated, and went away promising to recommend the "Lyon Hospital" to all inquirers.

WERDIN MAY WIN CASE ON TECHNICALITY

Those Familiar With Case Will Not Be Surprised if Crandall Loses

That E. R. Werdin stands an excellent chance of securing the East Fourth street paving contract is conceded by a number of persons familiar with the case. At 10 o'clock Monday morning Street Superintendent English is to appear in the superior court to show cause why he should not sign a contract with Werdin, and it is believed that at that time the entire matter will be settled.

It is understood that Werdin's mainstay is the fact that the notice of the East Fourth street property owners that they would take over the contract after it had been awarded to Werdin on Vrooman Act proceedings was signed with Mrs. E. J. Gardner's name by her daughter, Miss Sarah Gardner, for a frontage of property owned by Mrs. Gardner's sister, Charlotte Elliott.

Werdin alleges that the deed stands in Charlotte Elliott's name. Her property has a frontage of 530 feet. Werdin believes that the court will hold that that frontage was never legally signed for, and that without it the property owners lacked the necessary five per cent of the frontage necessary to take over the contract.

There is no question but that the Elliott property frontage favors the plan of allowing Crandall to do the paving, but the technicality may defeat the plan of the property owners who have attempted by letting the contract to Crandall at twelve cents a square foot to save $3,000. Werdin's bid was fourteen cents.

HIGH DYING COSTS OBJECT OF FIGHT

Cleveland Man Advocates City Undertaker to Cut Cost of Funerals

CLEVELAND, March 21.—The high cost of dying is threatened with extermination if Cleveland's latest municipal move becomes a reality. It is a municipal undertaker, Law Director Stockwell, is advocating the project. It is not the rich he hopes to aid. He desires to protect the poor from excessive funeral charges and believes a city undertaker is the only solution of the problem.

In many cases funeral expenses are twice the amount they should be," says Stockwell. "The persons who need the services of an undertaker, particularly the poor, are at the mercy of the undertaker. The city should furnish protection to the public by standing ready to conduct funerals at figures approximately the actual cost."

If casket makers and dealers in undertakers' supplies ally themselves with the undertakers to balk the plan, Stockwell would have the city make its own supplies at the Warrensville city farm.

TOLEDO PARSON TO SUPERVISE FIGHTS

Rector Jones, Episcopalian, at Head of City's Boxing Commission

TOLEDO, O., March 21.—There'll be no fleecing of the public through crooked prize fights by crooked fight promoters in Toledo henceforth; and the Rev. Aaron E. Jones, curator of St. Mark's Episcopal Church, is the man who will be personally responsible for straight fighting and clean prize-ring sport here.

Dr. Jones has just been appointed head of the municipal boxing commission by Mayor Keller, for two reasons.

The first is that Dr. Jones is an enthusiastic a fight fan as there is in the city, and as such knows the game from first to last. The second reason is that Dr. Jones is mentally, temperamentally and physically THE man for the place. He believes thoroughly in boxing if it is properly supervised—and he declared he will see that the game IS properly supervised while he heads the local commission.

"I believe every man and boy should be taught how to defend himself," said Dr. Jones today. "We shall give special attention to boys between the ages of fifteen and twenty. We shall see to it that no man or boy engages in a fight in this city until he has undergone a rigid physical examination and has been pronounced fit. Our aim is to build up men in physical strength and to make the sport

CHINA TO SUPPLY THE PACIFIC STATES WITH HER PRODUCE

SAN FRANCISCO, March 21.—A refrigerator steamship line to Northern China to provide cheaper beef, butter and eggs for the Pacific coast was the plan under consideration today by the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce. Negotiations with this end in view already have been started by a committee of wealthy business men appointed by the organization. The present plan is to import eggs from the northern parts of China. These eggs, it was said, do not come in for the criticism recently made on eggs brought to California ports from the southern parts of the country. Chamber of Commerce officials declare the northern China eggs average from four to six to the pound and are raised under the best sanitary conditions.

The plan also provides for importing beef from cattle raised in the provinces of Honan and Shantung, which contain many hundreds of miles of the finest pasture. The Russians, it is said, prefer this beef to the Australian variety and it is probable, according to reports, that the United States troops in the Philippines will be provided from this source during the coming year. Butter of the best quality, it is said, also may be secured from the Honan and Shantung provinces. A Tientsin firm keeps the refrigerating steamer Guthrie plying constantly between that port and Vladivostok with produce.

Proof of What Golden Eagle Egg Food Will Do

TEST CASE MADE IN LOS ANGELES, CAL., BY GRAYSON LEWIS

Fourteen pens containing four hundred March pullets were being fed on a state balanced ration. Seven of these pens were changed to Golden Eagle Egg Food December 1st. Six weeks later the result was as follows: Two hundred pullets fed on Golden Eagle Egg Food laid an average of one hundred and eighteen eggs each day for six weeks.

Two hundred fed on state balanced ration had an average of only eighty-two eggs for each day during the six weeks. This shows a gain of ninety dozen eggs for thirty days, and if eggs are worth fifty cents per dozen, this would mean $45.00 gain. Golden Eagle Egg Food proved the cheaper food.

Years ago the poultrymen in Corning, in the northern part of the state said, "We have not the climate here to make the hens pay." Now Corning is a large poultry district, and they found the climate in the feed box.

We can name you dozens of towns throughout the state where the poultry industry will soon be one of the leading business enterprises. Poultrymen are daily being convinced that balanced rations are far superior to former methods of feeding, as they provide the hen with such ingredients that are essential to insure health and also furnish the proper egg producing elements.

Proposed "Water Commission" Law

Address Delivered Before the City Club, of Los Angeles,
by Former Governor George C. Pardee

PROPOSED LAW WILL REGULATE SPECULATORS.

Another argument urged by the opponents of this law is that it will compel the poor man to go to expense of applying to a "political commission" for the privilege of appropriating water. So it will—so it will. It will also compel the rich man, the water-hog, the water-rights-speculator and the would-be exploiter of the public to show cause why he should be permitted to appropriate water rights. And when it happens, as it has happened, is happening and will happen, that the attorneys and other representatives of predatory wealth and the newspapers devoted to its service are so lachrimosely solicitous for the poor man, the opponents of this law will, I hope, pardon me for saying that I am reminded of the fable of the lion and the lamb.

POOR MAN NEEDS OTHER DEFENDERS.

The poor farmer-man who wants to appropriate water for irrigation purposes needs no defense against anybody but those who would speculate in the irrigation waters of this State. That poor man needs no defenders in the shape of the attorneys of those who have been exploiting him and are eager to continue to do so. He needs no defense in the shape of newspapers devoted to the championing of the cause of those who have plundered and want to continue to plunder him. What he wants is a representative, in the shape of a "political commission," which, as the Railroad Commission stands between him and the railroads, will stand between him and those who have exploited him and want to continue to exploit him.

In this regard, let me say that the expense to any man, rich or poor, provided by this law for the appropriation of water for irrigation purposes is, as you will see later on, the merest bagatelle—that, in fact, the really poor man is protected from practically all expense in this regard.

PROPOSED LAW AND LITIGATION.

But, it is claimed, the proposed law will cause an enormous increase in the litigation over water rights in this State. It or any other law would have to "go some" if it added to the already enormous volume of litigation over water rights in this State. It would have to be a very lively law if it increased or even equaled the volume of lawyers' fees and other legal and extra-legal expenses that have been incurred, are being incurred and will be incurred under the present "grab-and-hold" law under which irrigation water may be appropriated.

PRESENT LAW CAUSES LITIGATION.

Corporation attorneys tell us that the law under which, for all these years, we have worked and are still working is all right—is "the best ever." Every Californian knows that enormous sums have been spent, are being spent and will be spent in litigation over California water rights under our present laws. Even in the little county of Kings there are now before its superior court twenty suits over water. And in a half-dozen of the other counties of this State there are now on the dockets of the courts a hundred suits involving water. These suits are usually enormously expensive, and, not infrequently, either the defendant or the plaintiff is a power or an irrigation company—they are not, in the majority of cases, disputes between neighbors, but are fiercely contested attempts on the part of those who appreciate its value to get control of water, the right to use which is not settled. And as water rights grow always more valuable, they will always be the objects of constantly increasing litigation, as they have been in the southern part of this State.

PRESENT LAW UNSETTLES WATER RIGHTS

Under our present system a suit to settle water rights settles only the rights, as related to each other, of the parties to that particular suit. If "A" sues "B" and gets a decree for 1,000 inches of water, that decree is good only until "C," or "D," or somebody else comes along, brings suit and gets a judgment entitling him to that same water. If there are five water right claimants on a stream, the water rights on that stream cannot be said to be settled until each of the five claimants has sued or been sued by all the other claimants—until, in fact, there have been nine expensive, heartbreaking lawsuits. If there be ten claimants, it will require 45 suits to finally settle, only between those ten claimants, the water rights on that stream.

ELWOOD MEAD ON EXISTING CONDITIONS.

As Elwood Mead, the great irrigationist, speaking of California, puts it: "There can be no stability under the present situation. The law affords no means of enforcing a right, when once adjudicated, except through another lawsuit. Litigation and controversy are forced by the law. * * * With a right clearly defined and protected, its owner has no fear of shortage in time of need, and he is willing, when his crop does not require water, to have it utilized by others. But when the right is insecure or not defined the instinct of self-protection makes an Ishmaelite of every water-user. * * * The whole system is wrong in principle as well as in procedure. It assumes that the establishment of titles to the snows on the mountains and the rains falling on the public lands and the waters collected in the lakes and rivers, on the use of which the development of the State must depend, is a private matter. It ignores public interest in a resource upon which the enduring prosperity of communities must rest. It is like "A" suing "B" for control of property which belongs to "C." Many able attorneys hold that these decreed rights will in time be held invalid, because when they were established the public, the real owner of the water, never had its day in court."

PROPOSED LAW WILL SETTLE WATER RIGHTS.

The proposed water commission law will finally settle in one proceeding in the State courts all the existing water rights on each California stream; will give to every claimant the rights that belong to him, and will assure to him those rights so long as he exercises them. And the State, being party, through its Water Commission, to the whole transaction, rights thus acquired cannot be successfully questioned by anybody, not even by the State.

Under present conditions and the present law, if you have a water right, what is to prevent someone with sufficient money from hiring lawyers and lawing you out of it or into bankruptcy, or both? Under the proposed law, any person who should attempt to get away from you a water right which the Water Commission and the courts had given you would be compelled to make his application for it to the Water Commission. That body, representing the people, would investigate the whole question without putting you to any expense—just as the Railroad Commission investigates, without any cost to you, any extortion attempted to be practiced upon you by the transportation companies. And the report of the Water Commission to the court would be in your favor if your right were valid. The validity of your right under present conditions, however, does not in the slightest degree reduce the cost of your side of a lawsuit brought by anybody who may covet your valid water right.

SIMILAR LAW IN OREGON.

The proposed California law largely follows the Oregon water commission law. In that State, in the last four years the Water Commission has settled practically 1,000 water rights, at a cost of about ten dollars to each claimant. And so well satisfied has every claimant been with the decisions of the Oregon "political commission" that not a single appeal to the courts has been taken from the commission's decisions.

SIMILAR LAW IN WYOMING.

A water commission law, similar to the proposed California law, has been in operation in the State of Wyoming for many years. In that time the commission has settled 15,000 water rights with only ten appeals to the courts from the commission's decisions. Under existing conditions, it is safe to say that, here in California, in the same length of time, there have been many more than a hundred times ten law suits for the settlement of water rights, and that many hundreds of thousands of dollars have been spent in water suits.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA WATER RIGHTS NOT SETTLED.

It is said that in the southern part of this State all the rights to the use of water have been finally determined and accepted by everybody, and that, therefore, there is no need for a water commission to supervise the water situation. I venture to assert that, even in Southern California, there is nothing to prevent anybody from bringing suit to take away from any water user his water right. I venture also to assert that every water user in Southern California is in a state of armed neutrality, watching every other user of water on his stream to see to it that his own "already finally settled" rights may not be taken from him. I venture to assert that there have been brought, are on the dockets of the courts and will be brought many, many expensive, heart-breaking lawsuits to settle, or rather to unsettle, the "already finally settled" water rights of Southern California. I venture also to assert that, protected by the investigations of a California Water Commission and by an inexpensive, wholesale decision of the courts, the water users of Southern California could sleep o' nights and would not have anywhere near the use for lawyers' services that they know now have.

CALIFORNIA WATER RIGHTS LAW CHAOTIC.

All assertions, from whatever source they may come, to the contrary notwithstanding, water rights and the law of water rights in this State are in a chaotic condition. Investigation has shown that fully 90 per cent of the appropriations of water in this State have been made only for speculative purposes. Many appropriations have been held for years, are being held now, in plain violation of the spirit and the letter of the law. They are, therefore, illegal and voidable. But the only way in which they may be declared void is by means of a lawsuit. Who shall be put to the expense and trouble of the suits necessary to declare those appropriations void? Shall it continue to be left to private parties to spend the time and money necessary to have the State's water rights freed from the cloud upon them, so that the water may actually be put to beneficial uses for the benefit of all the people? Or should the State, the owner of the water, clear the title to its property and place it at the disposal of those who can and will use it for the general good?

The proposed law creates a Water Commission whose duty it shall be to inaugurate proceedings in the name of and for the benefit of all the people for the annulment of all illegal water rights—actual use being the foundation of all legal water rights. Who but those who know or suspect that they have no legal right should object to the State investigating water rights and taking from those who have them their illegally-held water rights?

PROPOSED LAW WILL NOT STOP DEVELOPMENT.

Another argument against the proposed law is that it will stop all water development in this State. The answer is, first, that similar laws in other States have not stopped, but, on the contrary, have encouraged, by preventing monopoly and lawsuits, water development, by making it easy and inexpensive for real water users to get possession of and hold water rights; while the water speculator cannot hold out of use water that someone else wants to use. Second, there is in existence in this State a Water Commission, whose duty it has been for the past two years to regulate the appropriation of water for power purposes. When that bill was before the Legislature it was loudly asserted that it would stop all power development in this State. As a matter of cold fact, however, some 75 applications have been made to that commission for permission to appropriate water for power purposes. Of these applications, something like 20 have been granted. The rest were refused because, in the great majority of them, it was evident that the appropriations were asked for only for speculative purposes. Had it not been for the existing Water Commission every one of those 70 odd applicants could have made the appropriations and held onto them without using the water as long as they wanted to, or until somebody came along who wanted the rights badly enough to spend a lot of money in buying them out or in a lawsuit to dispossess the illegal claimants.

But the law does not give the present Water Commission the authority to go out on the streams and investigate old appropriations and, ascertaining whether or not they are being illegally held, inaugurate proceedings to annul and restore them to the public domain for the use of those who can and will put them to use. The proposed law does just that.

PROPOSED LAW WILL EQUITABLY SETTLE WATER RIGHTS.

It is objected to the proposed law that it will "unsettle" water rights. They are very badly unsettled now; for, simply by bringing a lawsuit, any person can raise "hob" with any water rights he may covet, and may, by wearing out those whom he attacks, take from them, by force of money, the rights that are legally the property of others. The proposed law recognizes, as it must, "vested and existing rights." And those possessed of such rights need have no fear of being lawed out of them by any act of the proposed Water Commission, any more than such injustices have followed the long, continued functions of the Oregon and Wyoming water commissions.

WATER RIGHT TITLES SHOULD BE SETTLED.

The titles to water rights in this State should be finally established and determined as the titles to real estate have been. Real estate titles date back to and are fundamentally determined by the soundness or unsoundness of the titles of the original owners thereof. Those original titles were judicially determined by wholesale, long, long ago. But there never has been and is not now any method by which the titles to the use of California water can be quickly, inexpensively and finally determined. Real estate would be in much the same condition if the titles to it had not been settled by wholesale long, long ago.

Until water rights are determined, as the proposed law will determine them, from a wholesale standpoint, water right titles in California must remain unsettled, and the possessors of the longest purses can indefinitely harass and annoy those water right possessors whose property they covet.

EXISTING RIGHTS NOT PROTECTED BY EXISTING LAW.

Under present conditions any man may go out on any stream in this State and post and record his notice of appropriation of any quantity of water, even to the full run-off of the stream, even if every drop of water in the stream has already been put to irrigation use. And thus having acquired, by his own unsupervised act, a color of shadow of a title to the use of that water, he can put every lawful user of the water of that stream to the expense and annoyance of a lawsuit to protect his rights.

Such suits have been brought in this State, such suits will be brought so long as the people permit anybody who desires to do so to make the initial act of appropriation of water without the supervision of a lawfully constituted representative of the people. By means of such suits men have been deprived, will continue to be deprived, of their lawfully-acquired and lawfully-held water rights simply because they have not the financial means to employ lawyers to defend those rights to a final issue in the courts.

SETTLED RIGHTS SHOULD BE PROTECTED.

Even those parts of California where water rights are, it is claimed, "already finally determined and settled," should be protected against the buccaneering propensities of the water-hogs. Especially in those portions of the State where the entire water supply is now appropriated and put to beneficial use should there be a stop put to all unsupervised new appropriations of water. Especially in such parts of California should no person be permitted to becloud, by his own unsupervised act, the titles to existing and vested water rights. Every irrigating ditch that cannot be filled, every pump that cannot be operated, every acre of land prepared for irrigation that is in excess of what the stream will serve, means either a loss of money invested or the robbing of an earlier user; sometimes it means both. So long as the right to make new appropriations is unrestricted, so long as there is no representative of the public to supervise new appropriations and keep excessive appropriations from being made, just so long will old rights be insecure and at the mercy of the water pirates.

WATER RIGHTS VERY VALUABLE.

In some parts of this State water is worth $2,000 an inch; within a few years it will be worth as much in other parts of this State. Shall the people continue to permit Tom, Dick and Harry to take that enormously valuable property of the people without demonstrating to a representative of the people his good faith and his desire, willingness and ability to put it to beneficial uses for the general good of the people?

Petroleum Production of World

In an article on the production of petroleum throughout the world during the year 1913, the London Petroleum Review in its issue of Feb. 21 says:

Though comparatively little time has elapsed since the passing of 1913, it is possible to deal in some detail with the production of crude oil throughout the fields of the world for the past year, since, inasmuch as the "Review" generally published the output of the principal fields month by month, the compilation presents no difficulty once the crude-oil production for the last month of the year is announced.

The present is without doubt an "oil age." We see the extension of the consumption of petroleum products in every direction and upon every market of the world, and it follows as a commercial principle that, with the consistent increase in the utilization of petroleum products, the production of the article is likewise expanding. But not only so. Those interested in the production of crude oil appreciate the one drawback which has prevented the greater adoption of its various products—the fact that there is ever present that feeling that oil supplies may suddenly be cut short and that a famine in petroleum products may at any time come upon the world. The world's producers today are, therefore, determined to strain every nerve in order that the crude oil output may be maintained at a figure limited only to the market demands and the transport facilities. This is clearly seen by those who have followed the varying conditions in the numerous producing fields during the past year.

The quotations of crude oil have been such as to stimulate exploitation, and in many cases the search for new regions and for extensions to the older districts have been eminently satisfactory. Yet, after all, there is a limit beyond which development cannot proceed unless accompanied with a decline in prices—possibility which is not desired by any oil-field operator or oil producer.

Enormously increasing production and a highly profitable level of prices do not go hand in hand. The law of supply and demand prevails, and when once there is a superabundance of crude oil above the ground in the oilfields of the world, then most assuredly will quotations commence to weaken, in which case it is difficult to see where they will stop. It has been this one fear which has operated in the American and other fields during the past year; if it were necessary, production could be immeasurably increased, but in such case it is a foregone conclusion that prices would suffer.

Consequently, who can blame the producers in the Mid-continent or in the California fields for limiting their output as much as possible, in order to continue the run of healthy prices? At the moment we know production is somewhat lagging behind consumption, and rightly so; this must not, however, be taken to suggest that the present output of crude oil has reached the zenith of its volume in the world's fields. It is simply a wisely moulded policy of the producers, who, rather than become overstocked with the raw material, prefer to run hand in hand with deliveries, for by this saving, the great accumulation of stocks are materially assisting the present healthy tone which permeates the oil market to continue indefinitely.

In spite, however, of the measures which in many fields have been taken to curtail the great increase in the output of crude oil, the production of petroleum in the world's fields during 1913 reached a new record, as is seen from the following table in which the figures are given in barrels (estimated upon the broad basis of seven to the ton).

Barrels	Barrels	Barrels	Barrels
United States	240,000,000	220,000,000	220,000,000
Brazil	82,500,000	32,000,000	37,000,000
Balilla	8,500,000	8,000,000	9,000,000
Roumania	12,200,000	12,000,000	11,500,000
Sunatra and Borneo	12,500,000	13,000,000	11,500,000
British India	7,500,000	7,500,000	7,000,000
Mexico	22,000,000	16,500,000	11,000,000
South America, Japan, China, Peru, Germany, Canada, Java, etc.	12,000,000	10,000,000	6,500,000
Totals	378,300,000	350,000,000	343,000,000

From the above table it will be noticed that the production of crude oil throughout the world last year was an advance of about 4,000,000 tons upon that of the preceding year, while in its turn was upon 1,000,000 tons in excess of the figures for 1911.

The increase is shared by several important oil-producing countries, but in the greatest proportion by America, where, in the face of all efforts towards curtailment, an increase of approximately 3,000,000 tons on the year is shown. Had the capabilities of the oil regions of the States been allowed to pour forth their flood of oil above ground, there is not the slightest doubt that the production from those fields would have shown an increase of at least 10,000,000 tons, the greater portion of which would have come from California. As it was, the year's yield has been sufficiently great to take up all additional storage accommodation, while the increased pipeline arrangements have been taxed to their full capacity.

Mexico comes next in its increased output, but even this is merely nominal, for it is an open secret that the largest producers in the Republic are practically shut down until such time as an adequate demand is created for their outflow. As to Roumania, petroleum affairs have pursued a steady course during the past year, apart from the Balkan trouble, which not unnaturally upset operations on the fields, and thus materially reduced the total production, which, as it was, met with ever present difficulties in regard to transport. During the present year, however, matters will be considerably improved in this respect, and it is not too much to anticipate a greatly increased output of crude oil, more particularly from those new and rich fields which are now entering the commercial producing stage.

Pays Heavy Inheritance Tax

An inheritance tax of $250,651.25 has been paid upon the estate of Sarah E. Fox of San Jose, who died leaving securities worth $1,349,452.95 in the safety deposit vaults at San Jose. The tax was so large because John Gillon, who is the chief beneficiary, was not a blood relation and therefore had the highest rate under the law. He paid all of the tax save $5,000, and this, too, without dispute.

Letters Sent C. O. D.

You may now place a letter in the postoffice without a stamp and have it carried to its destination. But it will cost you 4 cents, whereas it would have cost you 2 cents had you affixed a stamp in the mailing. This is the latest order of Postmaster-General Burleson reaching the Los Angeles office, and was promulgated primarily for the purpose of eliminating delay in the movement of mail.

Seek Railroad Lands

Senator Norris is preparing a bill which seeks forfeiture to the Government of lands worth millions of dollars, which were granted to the Union Pacific and other railroads for right of way and not used in accordance with the terms of the grant.

Carl R. Gray, president of the Great Northern Railway, will resign his position March 1 to become president of the St. Louis and San Francisco (Frisco) system, when the Frisco is taken out of the hands of receivers, probably not more than six months hence.

New Banking System

At the City Club luncheon at the Union League Club in Los Angeles, Alvin H. Low, author of "Land, Money and Highways; Evils and Remedies," delivered an address on the new currency law from the standpoint of a layman. He spoke in part as follows:

"The Federal reserve act, passed by Congress December 23, 1913, is the first step in the right direction in money legislation within the past fifty years. Here let me say, parenthetically, I do not even except the postal savings bank law from that sweeping statement, as I consider that law only a half step. In 1906 the National Bankers' Association, through its Federal legislative committee, issued a circular to all the banks entitled, 'A Plan for Credit or Clearance Currency,' a copy of which accidentally fell into my hands; I will quote a few lines of the concluding page: 'We are confident that if a majority of our bankers agree upon a plan that we will have little difficulty in securing the passage of it by Congress.' This expresses a confidence born of past experience."

"Let me see how well this confidence of the American Bankers' Association has been justified by the act under discussion. The Federal reserve act bears a striking resemblance, in general outline, to the Aldrich bill, recommended to Congress by the National Monetary Commission in January, 1913, which was, I believe, fathered by the National Bankers' Association.

"There is one distinguishing feature of this Federal reserve act which materially changes the nature of it from that of the 'Aldrich' bill. The controlling body governing the system established by the Federal reserve act is composed of Government officials of the highest order instead of officials appointed by the money lenders, of the money lenders, and for the money lenders, as provided by the 'Aldrich' bill.

"This feature of the act was the principal stumbling block to its passage, but I am constrained to believe that the act as finally passed is a popular triumph over the sinister interests, which, but for the vigilance of the President and of our patriotic and progressive representatives, would have fastened the money monopoly upon us for the next fifty years at least.

"Our money system has heretofore had two cardinal defects, namely, a lack of elasticity of volume, and too great elasticity in value, whereas the value should be fixed since money is the measure of value. A right and inelastic volume compels an elastic value.

The strife for an elastic volume has all the time held the boards and but little attention has been given to the necessity for a fixed value to our money, and while the effect of the Federal reserve act may, and probably will to some extent, affect the value of money, this effect will be unsteady and undecisive, merely incidental, as a fixed value is nowhere provided for in the act or elsewhere. There are two express provisions in the act, however, which serve as pointers to that end.

"Section two of the act provides that the Federal Reserve Board may require the Federal reserve banks to rediscount the discounted paper of other Federal reserve banks at rates of interest to be fixed by the Federal Reserve Board.

"Section fourteen also provides that every Federal reserve bank shall have power to establish from time to time, subject to review and determination of the Federal Reserve Board, rates of discount to be charged by the Federal reserve bank for each class of paper which shall be fixed with view of accommodating commerce and business.

"In these two sections it is asserted by example and inference that it is one of the prerogatives of Congress to fix the rate of interest and discount, and it has delegated that power to an official executive board to be exercised to a limited extent.

"While there is much to be hoped for from the Federal reserve act, it does not give the last word on the currency question. If, by its operation, financial panics are averted, we shall owe a lasting debt of gratitude to its authors. I am indulging the hope—I had almost said faith—that this will be its effect. 'Let me call your attention to section 7 of the Federal reserve act relating to division of earnings.'

"It should be borne in mind that every co-partnership, association, corporation and trust organized to transact business for profit is an artificial person, whose very existence is made possible only by force of the laws of the land. When the existence or conduct of any such artificial person becomes incompatible with the public welfare, it is the right and duty of the law-making power to abolish, dissolve or destroy the same, or assume such control of it as to render it harmless or to even make it useful to the general public.

"It is fully recognized in section 19 of the 'Aldrich' bill, and again section 7 of the Federal reserve act, where it is provided that as a franchise tax, the franchise permitting the existence of the regional reserve banks, a share of the profits of the business done by such banks shall be paid to the Government. The percent of profit allowed to the bank is, of course, arbitrary.

"This provision, at any rate, is a most important step in the right direction, and if carried to its logical conclusion in subsequent legislation will, it seems to me, lead to the scientific and just solution of the capital and labor problem—the greatest of all economic problems throughout the world."

Legal Rights Stockholders

That owners of stock are entitled to proportionate share of an increase in the capital stock of a company in which they are shareholders at the original par value is the decision of Judge Finlayson in the Superior Court of Los Angeles County. The opinion was in the case of Emma F. Poplin vs. the Los Angeles Investment Company. The court also found that "the plaintiff was not entitled to adopt the highest market value as the measure of her damages, but that the market value at the date of the demand and refusal—the date of the alleged conversion—less the par value she and her assignors would have had to pay for the stock, with interest from that date, is the true measure of damages, which is not only the measure of damages permitted in all cases of conversion where the action has been prosecuted with reasonable diligence (Sec. 3336, C. C.), but is likewise the measure of damages followed by the Massachusetts court in Gray vs. Portland Bank, supta.

The plaintiff, who owned 500 shares of the capital stock of the company sued to recover damages for refusal to issue to her and her assignors, at par, 500 shares of the company's increased capital stock, said 500 shares being such proportion of the increase of the corporation's capital stock as the number of shares held by plaintiff and her assignors before the increase bears to the total number of subscribed shares prior to the increase.

Millions From Vineyards

The value of the viticultural product in California during 1913 reached the total of $26,875,000, according to Secretary E. M. Sheehan of the State Viticultural Commission. Grapes were sold to wineries for $15,000,000, table grapes brought in $7,000,000, and the value of the raisin crop was $4,875,000. From 200,000 tons of grapes $17,135,000 gallons of sweet wines were produced, and from 425,000 tons of grapes 25,000,000 gallons of dry white and red wines. From 45,000 tons of grapes 1,544,250 proof gallons of brandy were distilled.
